BEEF ANIMAL MIRED IN DEEP SNOW—
A beef animal moves slowly through belly-deep snow on the Henry Ducommun farm at Cleghorn, Ia., after a blizzard swept northwest Iowa. The animal, covered with ice and snow reached bales of hay dropped by National Guard helicopters. Cattlemen fear many of the animals will perish.

Assembly Eyes Rhodes Plans

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Democratic legislative leaders say they will look at Gov. James A. Rhodes' four proposed constitutional amendments on their merits and won't oppose them for political reasons.

"We won't oppose them just because they come from a Republican governor," said House Speaker Vernal G. Riffe Jr., D-89 New Boston.

He added Friday that if the programs in the fields of industrial tax abatement, housing, transportation, and inner cities "will create jobs, as he (Rhodes) says, then I think there's a good chance we can support them."

But the speaker stressed that Rhodes has not yet revealed the details of a transportation bond issue and yet another to help rebuild inner cities—namely "where the money is coming from."

Riffe said the revenue bond approach, where bonds are retired with rents and fees charged for use of the facilities, is "going in the right direction." But he added: "the governor hasn't said how these other things are going to be paid for."

Rhodes said he will divulge the transportation and inner city programs at separate news conferences next week, and that his proposals will be in the hands of legislative leaders by Monday, Feb. 17.

In response to questions, the speaker said he thinks the legislature has enough time to place Rhodes' programs on the June 3 ballot, if it decides to go along with them. They must clear the legislature by March 4, or 90 days before the election, under Ohio law.

The legislature now is in recess until Feb. 18. But Riffe noted, "That still gives us three weeks, which should be enough time." He mentioned that two proposals could be introduced in each house to speed deliberations.

Rhodes still was "undecided," he said, whether he will approve or veto the Democrat-conceived $91.3 million school appropriations bill which has been on his desk since Friday. "We have 10 days," he told newsmen asking his intentions.

Republican legislative leaders urged Rhodes to veto the measure because Democrats refused appeals to earmark the funds for an "inflationary catch up" raise for teachers and school employees.

Rhodes promised a $1,000 pay raise for teachers last fall in his successful election campaign.

His 10-day statutory limit for action on the measure doesn't include Sundays and holidays, and thus ends Feb. 19.

Ex-Highway Chief Succumbs

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Funeral services are scheduled here Monday for Pearl E. Masheter, who served as state highway director under Gov. James A. Rhodes' first two terms.

Masheter, 73, died Friday in Riverside Hospital of an apparent heart attack after being stricken in his suburban Upper Arlington home.

Masheter, who served from 1963-71, was praised by Rhodes Friday as having made "the greatest contributions to the Ohio highway system of any man, building more highways than any other director."

Masheter played a role in the final alignment of Ohio's 1,529-mile interstate highway network and started a program of feeder and access routes to the state's industrial and recreation areas.

Before becoming highway director, Masheter served 35 years with the highway department and operated an engineering consulting service in Columbus. He held a bachelor's degree in civil engineering from Ohio State University.

Survivors include the widow, Betty, and son, Richard, a prominent Columbus auto dealer.

Toll-Free Line For Recipients

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A toll-free telephone hot-line for food stamp information will begin operating Feb. 11, the Ohio Public Welfare Department said Friday.

The hot-line number, 1-800-282-1190, will be in service initially from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Information will be available on food stamp center locations, eligibility requirements, application information and food stamp regulations.

Welfare Director Denver L. White said the hot-line is part of a general department program to increase public awareness of food-stamp availability.

Simon Sees No Economic Upturn Until Year's End

WASHINGTON (AP) — Treasury Secretary William E. Simon says he expects the nation's economic upturn will begin in the final three months of the year, which is later than earlier administration forecasts.

Simon and other administration economics advisers had predicted until recently that the nation's economic slowdown would reach bottom in midyear, with an economic recovery beginning in the second half.

But Simon's emphasis on a resumption of growth in the fourth quarter, made Friday during an interview with Associated Press Radio, indicated the administration has revised its outlook.

There will be "positive growth of the Gross National Product in the fourth quarter continuing into 1976," Simon said.

The administration is forecasting that the GNP will decline 3.3 per cent this year, following the 2.2 per cent decline last year.

Simon also said much of the nation's economic downturn can be blamed on the Arab oil embargo last year, which he said pushed an already declining U.S. economy onto a much sharper downward path.

"The embargo changed the dimension of our entire economy," he said.

Simon also said the nation's recession is peculiar, because while some sectors like autos and housing are noticeably declining, "many businesses are producing all-out, and others are not far below capacity." He didn't say what these were.

He said economic planners and the Congress must be careful to prevent economic recovery from getting out of hand, once it begins.

Simon's comments came as the government announced that the unemployment rate for January was 8.2 per cent, a statistic AFL-CIO President George Meany said "spells tragedy for American families and disaster for the American economy."

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said President Ford was concerned about the new level of unemployment but urged that "there not be panic."

Additional bad news on the economy came from Detroit, where Ford Motor Co. announced additional indefinite layoffs for more than 1,000 employees.

In other developments on the economy:

—Chairman Arthur F. Burns of the Federal Reserve Board said while the board will ease credit to encourage recovery from the recession "we have no intention of permitting an explosion in money and credit."

—The nation's two largest commercial banks, Bank of America and First National City Bank, lowered their prime lending rates one-quarter point to 9 per cent.

—Stock prices dropped as the heavy trading pace of the last two weeks slackened somewhat. The Dow Jones Industrial average dropped 2.26 and ended the week with a gain of 8.22.

—Demand for oil products in the United States during 1974 fell for the first time in 32 years, studies by the Chase Manhattan Bank and the American Petroleum Institute showed.

—The nation's No. 6 steel producer, Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp., announced that its earnings climbed 282 per cent in 1974.

—Outgoing Labor Secretary Peter J. Brennan predicted that Ford's economic proposals would lead to a boom in the construction industry. He said the steady decline in interest rates, coupled with the President's request for an increase in the investment tax credit, would spur new construction.

Kidney Transplant For Little Boy Brings Donations

NAPLES, Fla. (AP)—Six-year-old Donnie Todd has received so many donations after news reports about his need for a kidney transplant operation that his family says the only thing he needs now is prayer.

"I don't want anyone else to sacrifice their money for Donnie, he has all he needs," the boy's father, Robert Todd, said Friday. "Everyone's been so generous. At this point we are asking for prayers for a successful operation."

Doctors said Donnie, who is 30 inches tall and weighs barely 30 pounds, is strong enough now to receive a kidney from his father.

Donnie's kidneys stopped functioning several months ago and the transplant is needed to save his life. Doctors say there is a 90 per cent chance the operation will be successful.

The transplant operation is set for Feb. 18 at Shands Teaching Hospital at the University of Florida in Gainesville.

The boy's kidneys failed as the result of a rare congenital disease, asphyxiating thoracic dystrophy, which caused him to stop growing two years ago. The disease and subsequent operations for a liver ailment and bronchitis left him weak and the transplant had to wait.

Todd is a 34-year-old former Army paratrooper who received six Purple Hearts, a Silver Star and two Bronze Stars in two tours of duty in Vietnam. He said he feels his life was spared in combat so he could help Donnie by giving him a kidney.

Donnie's medical expenses left the Todds so deep in debt they thought they might not be able to afford the operation. Todd, a cafeteria worker, and his wife sold their car and comfortable home and moved to a less expensive house.

They still had $20,000 in unpaid medical bills. And the joint transplant operation, hospital care and doctors fees was expected to cost another $80,000.

Six weeks ago, The Associated Press reported Donnie's plight. Offers of help began pouring in and a special fund was set up to receive them.

Fund trustee Jerry Deason said Friday that nearly $30,000 in cash has been received. That, plus help from the Florida Bureau of Crippled Children and Social Security Administration, will take care of overdue medical bills and the transplant, he said.

He said no more money would be accepted for the Help For Donnie fund.

"There is no way we can thank the people all over the nation who sent money and the people in Naples who worked so doggone hard," said Todd.

Housing Program To Be Flexible

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes' new housing program not only would permit about $500 million in revenue bonds for individual housing, but also would allow construction of new nursing homes and senior citizen centers with state backing.

Rhodes, who outlined the state ballot proposal at a news conference Friday, said it also would enable local governments to sponsor state projects, and, with all elements combined, would create "thousands of jobs" in

Fords Spending Quiet Weekend

CAMP DAVID, Md. (AP) — President Ford is spending the weekend at this mountaintop retreat with members of his family.

Accompanying the President were Mrs. Ford, daughter Susan and the family's pet golden retriever dog, Liberty.

The Fords arrived early Friday night after a 40-minute helicopter flight from the White House and walked to the presidential lodge in frosty weather. Temperatures were in the low teens.

The President's wife, Betty, was bundled up in a fur coat and wearing a neck brace to help ease the discomfort of a flare-up of osteoarthritis that causes nagging pain and discomfort in the neck and back.

Eritrean Rebels Attack In Asmara

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP) — A U.S. communications station in the provincial capital of Asmara was hit by gunfire early today after Eritrea's secessionist rebels launched a mortar and rocket assault on an Ethiopian military headquarters, informed sources said.

All of the 100 U.S. personnel were reported safe.

American officials were reported considering closing the station and evacuating its personnel. Their families were evacuated along with other foreigners Tuesday.

Sources said a 15-minute gun battle between rebels and government forces followed the attack. Asmara is ringed by about 20,000 government troops, who in turn are said to be surrounded by insurgents.

Today's fighting indicated some of the 6,000 rebel forces were still in the city. Damage and casualties were not immediately known.

There has been no major fighting in Asmara itself since Monday night. Diplomatic sources estimate the death toll from the nine-day civil war at more than 1,000.

The new assault came following a government statement Friday night that it would never allow the northern province to secede. A statement from Ethiopia's military rulers called the rebels "bandits" and said secession was "unthinkable."

It said Eritreans were opposed to the "oppressive rule of the former regime" of Emperor Haile Selassie, deposed by the military last September. The statement added that the government is committed to finding a peaceful solution.

No food or fuel has reached Asmara since the fighting broke out. The airport is closed, electricity is supplied intermittently and few of the 200,000 residents venture into the streets.

Since 1962, the mostly Moslem guerrillas, supplied with arms from Arab states, have opposed control of Eritrea by the Christian-dominated regime in Addis Ababa.

In Addis Ababa, witnesses said Ethiopian soldiers exchanged gunfire with civilians for an hour Friday when a group of Eritreans living in Addis resisted arrest. The Eritreans were reported loaded into a truck and driven away.

Addis Ababa was calm today but there was an increased military presence in the city of one million residents.

Yamani Sees Oil Decline

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — The Saudi Arabian oil minister said today he hopes oil will not again be used as a political weapon and that petroleum prices should show "some decrease."

Sheik Ahmed Zaki Yamani also told a news conference he supports Henry A. Kissinger's step-by-step approach toward a Middle East settlement and hopes the U.S. secretary of state will achieve some breakthrough in his trip to the region next week.

"In the future, we hope oil won't be used as a weapon," the 45-year-old Yamani said at the end of a three-day visit to India.

"But, also, we hope the reason why we used it will be removed, and that is to get a home for the whole nation, the Palestinian nation who lived for more than 25 years in tents in the desert, and now it is time for them to have a home and we hope the territories occupied by the Israelis will be given back to the Arabs."

Turkey Producers Cutting Production

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Turkey producers may cut back production 6 per cent this year to around 123 million birds, the lowest total since 1971, a new study by the Agriculture Department indicates.

Production in 1974 was down 1 per cent to about 131 million birds from the record output of 132 million in 1973. But for many producers high feed costs and other production expenses have meant financial losses.

Thus, according to a new USDA report on turkey marketing issued Thursday, producers went into the 1975 season with plans to cut back substantially. Further, the outlook for turkey must include what is in store for competing products, including beef, pork and chicken.

"The prospects are for more beef throughout 1975, sharply reduced supplies of pork and less broilers through most of the year," the report said.

Based on the number of young turkeys last September through December, turkeys for market during the first four months of 1975 will be down about 9 per cent from January-April last year, the report said.

"This smaller supply of turkey would likely strengthen prices, but the larger supply of beef and a sluggish economy would temper any price rises in the first half of 1975," the report said.

Costs for producing turkeys are expected to rise still further in the first six months of this year. During the second half, officials said, much depends on how 1975 harvests of corn and soybeans shape up. Record crops could mean cheaper feed costs late in the year, while short production would mean a further spiral in expenses.

In 1974, the report showed, the average New York wholesale price of ready-to-cook turkey was 47.2 cents per pound, down from 58.8 cents.

Non-Agricultural Fertilizers And The World Food Problem

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent
Agriculture

Are the non-agricultural fertilizers we use on lawns, parks, etc. really hampering the world food supply?

Some people have made headlines recently by advocating the diversion of fertilizer from turf and other non-agricultural uses to underdeveloped countries for use in food production, says David P. Martin, Extension Agronomist at The Ohio State University. This has come most notably from the U.S. delegation to the World Food conference in Rome and several U.S. Congressmen, Martin says.

The world food problem has been with us for many years, he says. The severity of this problem has been magnified in recent years because of a rapidly increasing world population, severe drought in various countries and regions of the world, politically motivated decisions relating to food supply distribution and, of course, the high cost of fuel and its effect on fertilizer supplies and prices, Martin adds.

Estimates of the quantity of fertilizer being used for non-agricultural purposes in this country, compared to the total, vary considerably. These estimates range from 3.5 per cent to 17 per cent. The true figure is probably somewhere in between, Martin says. Non-agricultural fertilizers include those used for turf, airport runway dividers, vegetable gardens, public parks, highway shoulder stabilization and the landscape industry.

There are a number of reasons why fertilizer should be used for purposes other than food production, Martin says. Hundreds of thousands of jobs hinge on the "green" industry. Although not all of these jobs would be eliminated due to the loss of fertilizer, there are significant economic factors directly related to any fertilizer changes. In addition to the economic impact, green lawns and landscaping contribute aesthetically by making urban and rural life more pleasant. They also contribute to the en-

Tap Those Maple Trees In Your Yard

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent,
Agriculture

Those maple trees in your yard, often used only as bird perches or sunshades, can "sweeten" your late-winter experiences. With a little equipment, time and know-how, you can gather sap (sweet water) from the trees and boil it into tasty maple syrup, according to William F. Cowen, Jr., Extension forester, and Wilbur A. Gould, professor of horticulture at The Ohio State University.

All you need are a few maple trees at least 10 inches in diameter, a little inexpensive equipment, and a way to boil down sap outside the house or where the steam can be vented outside the house. These, plus your efforts in time and care, Cowen and Gould say, can give you a few quarts or gallons of high quality maple syrup.

Sugar and black maples are the best source of sweet water (sap); however, red and silver maples may also be used.

Good sap flows (called "runs") usually occur when a period of below-freezing weather is controlled by periods of warm weather. This type of weather in Ohio usually occurs from early February to late March or early April. As a general rule, early to mid-February is an excellent time to tap trees.

Cowen and Gould say to stop collecting sap just prior to or at the very early stages of bud expansion and development in late March or early April — depending on weather conditions.

Make tapholes by boring into the tree, using a carpenter's brace and a 3/8 or 7/16 inch fast-cutting wood bit. Bore the holes to a depth of 3 inches (not counting bark) into sound wood, from 2 to 5 feet above the ground. Slant the hole slightly upward to allow the sap to run out. On trees that have been tapped before, locate new tapholes 6 inches to one side and 4 inches higher than the old tapholes.

When possible, space tapholes evenly around the tree. Do not tap trees under 10 inches in diameter. Use one tap for 10-15 inch trees, two taps for 16-20 inch trees, three taps for 21-25 inch trees, and no more than four taps on trees over 25 inches in diameter. Do not leave chips or wood shavings in the tapholes.

To catch the sap that flows from the taphole and cause it to flow into a container, commercial producers use a device called a "spile" or "spout." Some hardware and farm equipment stores have these for sale.

Spouts usually have a tapered shoulder which forms a water-tight seal with the bark and outer sapwood, when they are driven into position in the taphole. The part of the spout inside the sealed area is more heavily tapered so that there is free space left within the taphole between the spout and the sapwood. This allows sap to move from the wood into the taphole and from there through the hole in the spout and out over the lip of the spout, from where it drops into a bucket, plastic bag or other receiving equipment.

The amount of sap flowing from a taphole varies widely from tree to tree and with weather conditions. In most years, a single taphole will produce from a quart to 2 gallons of sap per run, with seasonal production of 10 to 15 gallons.

Collect sap and boil it down as quickly as possible to produce good-tasting syrup. Collect sap as often as convenient, but do not leave it in the collection container for more than 2 days. Bacteria and other microorganisms can build up in sap that is kept in buckets or storage tanks for more than a few hours when the air temperature is warm.

Keep buckets, storage tanks and/or other collecting and processing equipment thoroughly washed between runs. Washing with a solution made of 1 part commercial liquid bleach (5.25 per cent sodium hypochlorite by weight) and 9 parts of water will usually maintain collecting vessels in clean conditions.

In Ohio, woodland-type sugar maples produce sweet water that averages around 2 per cent content. The problem is to remove enough water to get a sugar concentrate of about 66 per cent. Actual sap-sugar concentration varies from tree to tree; however, it will take 40 or more gallons of 2 per cent sap to make 1 gallon of finished syrup.

You can concentrate sap to syrup by boiling it in an open pan, preferably with fairly high sides. For boiling at home, it is important to have a device for removing the water vapor to some point outside the home, or do the actual boiling outside. The boiling process produces large quantities of steam that may damage wallpaper and/or painted surfaces.

During the boiling process, be careful not to burn or scorch the sap.

Liquid levels deep enough to prevent scorching must be maintained over the pan bottom. If much foaming occurs, skim off the foam or reduce foaming by using a commercial defoaming preparation.

As boiling begins and water evaporates, add more sap to the pan. Continue this process until a suitable amount of concentrated sap is left in the pan. Concentrating the "batch" to an acceptable density is a process called "finishing off." Finished syrup of acceptable density will boil at 7-1/4 degrees F. above the boiling point of water. Since water's boiling point varies with elevation above sea level and with barometric pressure, be sure to determine the boiling point of water before adding the 7-1/4 degrees at a basis for boiling point of the finished syrup.

Some candy thermometers are suitable for measuring the temperature of the boiling liquid. A thermometer with a temperature range of 200 degrees F. to 235 degrees F. will cover most situations. As the temperature of the boiling liquid approaches the syrup finishing point, take extreme care to prevent the boiling process from burning, scorching or overheating the liquid.

Once the syrup has reached the desired boiling point, it is ready for filtering and packaging. Filter the hot syrup through clean filters of wool or orlon. After filtering the hot syrup, package it in tightly sealed, clean containers. Syrup temperatures should be at least 180 degrees F. at the time of packaging to assure good keeping qualities.

Cooperative Extension Service agents in Ohio's maple-producing counties may be of help in locating sources of equipment and providing more detail.

Soybean Check-Off Backed By OFBF

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's 55,000 soybean producers are being urged by the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation to support the proposed soybean check-off referendum in voting March 4-6, according to Larry Humphrey, Ohio Farm Bureau soybean commodity division chairman.

If approved, Ohio soybean farmers would pay one-half cent per bushel for foreign market development and production research.

"Export trade, especially in soybeans, is extremely important to the Ohio farm economy," said Hugh Wilson, president of the Ohio Soybean Association, also speaking in favor of the check-off.

Humphrey and Wilson called for expanded agricultural grain exports at a news conference Thursday at Ohio State University.

And So It Grows

Order Garden Seed Now

The big push is on. Inflation is diverting more of the homeowner's leisure time to backyard gardening, and he's finding the "hobby" not only economical but also "tasty." You've never tasted a really good tomato until you pick a fresh one straight from your own garden, say the beginners as well as the oldtimers.

So, get your garden seed now for the spring planting. There'll probably be plenty of seed, but some of the more popular home grown vegetable seed supplies will grow short as the planting season approaches.

Recommended varieties of some of the more popular vegetables homeowners will be planting are:

Food prices have been going up for several months — and are still doing so. And as you know, other prices such as fuel and clothing are also on the upswing.

During the growing-up years, many of you are really looking for worthwhile things to do. Play is fun — but not all the time. It gives such a good feeling to do a REAL job . . . and to do it well.

If you feel like this, why not work on the family's food supply? If you have space, you may want to raise a vegetable garden, strawberries or grapes. Sometimes a family of several children will divide the projects with one or two growing the food and the others canning and freezing.

Growing a vegetable garden is also a healthy activity for both boys and girls. It is good exercise . . . and you can be in the outdoors a lot.

A garden will give you fresh vegetables for the summer, and then the extras can be frozen and canned.

The 4-H projects on canning and freezing teach the very best way to do the job. If you are going to do the work, you want to do it correctly so that the food will taste good and retain all the possible food value.

Why not have a family conference about some or all of these projects? If you can get some support, then why not talk to your 4-H advisor and see if these projects could be taken in your club? If you are not a member, why not call your County 4-H Agent, Steve Bartels, Phone 474-7534.

Iran Cancels Wheat Order

WASHINGTON (AP) — Iran has followed a number of other countries in canceling U.S. wheat orders for the current crop year, the Agriculture Department says.

A weekly listing of export commitments issued Thursday showed Iran has canceled orders for 209,000 metric tons of wheat scheduled for delivery by June 30, the end of the 1974 crop year.

But the report also showed Iran has booked an additional 184,000 tons of U.S. wheat for the new year which will begin July 1. Thus, officials said, Iran apparently decided to defer a large part of its original order until next season.

The report also confirmed officially that the Soviet Union canceled orders for 200,000 tons of wheat this season and has contracted for 100,000 tons of 1975 corn when the harvest is ready next fall.

Cook Industries, Inc., Memphis, announced the Soviet cancellation and new corn order earlier this week.

News For Homemakers

New goodies for we homemakers are constantly being introduced on the market. You might watch for (and carefully evaluate) a new countertop portable dishwasher being introduced. It's advertised to be large enough to hold a complete service for four but is small enough to move and use on a kitchen counter. It requires no special hookup.

Another new item for us to evaluate is a small round browning skillet and a larger companion piece, designed for use with microwave ovens. A special material in the bottom absorbs microwaves and converts them to heat making it possible to sear, grill, saute, fry and bake. Both pieces come with glass lids. We might have known someone would figure out how to fry and bake in microwave ovens.

A recent Supreme Court decision in the case of Jackson vs Metropolitan Edison Company will be a bit disappointing to some people. The court ruled that if a customer has not paid his utility bill, the utility company may cut off his service without telling him. This is not considered depriving the customer of "due process of law" because the utility company is not an agency of the government, even though it is regulated by the state. Since state action was not involved, the due process clause in our constitution does not apply; so said the court.

If you've been creative in changing the color of your eyelashes and brows, better check your product. The FDA recalled lots of Dark Eyes Lash and Bron Tint (a lightener) made by C. E. B. Products, Inc. The products, sold nationwide, contain silver nitrate which can cause blindness.

So many people are starting indoor gardens these days.

Three important pointers to remember in planning an indoor garden — (1) plants must be watered thoroughly, but only often enough to prevent wilting. (2) Plants should be fertilized every two to four weeks while they are actively growing and (3) plants should be illuminated with fluorescent lamps 12 to 16 hours daily according to USDA horticulturists. Why fluorescent lamps? Because they give uniform illumination over a wide area, emit a minimum amount of heat into the air and — plants can grow within 6 inches of the lamp without leaf damage.

A planter box is one interesting way to have an indoor garden and it may also serve as a room divider. It may be covered with indoor-outdoor carpet, a woodlike or metallic finish — even a laminated plastic (often used for kitchen counter tops) may be used. The inner surface must be a watertight liner made of sheet metal painted with asphalt to retain rusting. (or a temporary liner may be made of two layers of polyethylene stapled inside the planter.) It is also useful to have your planter mounted on casters so that it will be easy to move for cleaning.

Fluorescent lamps should be mounted with a clear cover or shield in front of the lamp to prevent plants from touching the hot tube. A timer is also useful so that the lighting system goes off at the proper time every day.

An indoor garden needs a temperature during the day of about 75 degrees F and at night about 65 degrees. Avoid drafty locations — or hot or cold. It should not be near exhaust fans or outside doors. It is also best not to place it near heavy traffic areas in the home.

Florida Flu Outbreak Said Over

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — The flu outbreak that besieged this retirement city for two months and caused 49 deaths seems to be over, says the health official who caused an uproar last month when he warned visitors to stay away.

Almost all the victims were people over 65 who already suffered chronic diseases, mainly heart and lung ailments, Dr. George Dame said Thursday.

Dame, Pinellas County's health director, ran into trouble with tourist-minded sectors last month when he warned potential winter visitors to stay away.

"But there were at least two visitors in that group of 49 flu-related deaths," Dame said, not identifying the two. "If they had not come down here, they might not have died."

Dame stuck to his guns despite the flap over his public warning.

"It may have saved some lives," he said of the warning, which was poo-pooed by some other health officials. "If it saved one, it was effective enough."

The flu siege started in early December and built slowly until about Dec. 21 when cases began to show in significant numbers, Dame said.

"We figure the attack rate was probably one in 10, so that would put it in the neighborhood of 75,000 cases in the two month span," he said.

Circleville DuPont Adds New Member To Wise Owl Club

EYE SIGHT SAVED—Donald L. Morris (right), an employee of Circleville Du Pont, recently avoided serious injury to his eye by wearing proper eye protection. He is presented a membership in the Wise Owl Club by his foreman, J. L. DePugh.

Du Pont employee Donald L. Morris was the recipient of the Wise Owl Award presented to him by his foreman J. L. DePugh. This award is given to employees who have been spared serious eye damage, if not blindness, by the wearing of proper eye protection.

Donald was removing a coiled section of braided hose from a storage shelf. Upon removal, the sharp, threaded end swung violently around, striking him on the lens of his safety glasses.

Slow Month

Time drags its feet in February. The days are longer than in November, when winter frequently defers its coming — longer than in August, that month when the summer begins to die and the earth seems to spin more slowly on its axis. Sometimes it seems that February will never pass.

The Romans, who devised the calendar, knew this same hunger for spring at this time of year. Early in their history they counted only 10 months, leaving a gap of some 60 days between the end of one year and the beginning of the next.

In time they added January and February, but they made

February short. They gave all the other months 31 days, 30 or 29. Only 28 were allotted to Februarius.

The Roman calendar was imperfect. It left extra days to account for somehow, to make the year fit the unvarying habit of the sun, but apparently the Romans wanted to avoid a longer February. Every second year they stopped the month at the 23rd, threw in the surplus days as a "mensis intercalaria" they called Mercedonius, and then started again with Feb. 24.

Somehow, despite these antics, the month gained a day. It had 29 days when Julius Caesar reformed the calendar. He kept it there by ordering Feb. 23 repeated once every four years. Then, when Augusta had to have a month as long as Julius', he took the needed day from February. Nobody minded much then and nobody has cared much since, so February has 28 days three years out of four.

Perhaps the reason calendar reformers have not made much progress is that they want February to be the same length as other months. For thousands of years men have insisted on having this month of waiting kept shorter than the others. They may never be persuaded that it is not too long already.

Rule Britannica

ON THE LINE
By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK — Having been stunned recently by sight of the U.S. Air Force's B-1, and Cunard's QE-2, I have moved on to Encyclopedia Britannica 3, equally formidable.

On the subject of women, Britannica 3 says, in effect, "You've come a long way, baby, but you've got a helluva way to go."

There have been only three women prime ministers, never a U.S. woman President or Vice President. There has not been a U.S. woman Cabinet member since Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby in the Eisenhower Administration. It was not until this year that a fully elected woman governor took office, Mrs. Ella Grasso of Connecticut.

Civilizations have trouble making up their minds about women. Eighteen hundred years before Christ, Hammurabi declared that women could and should serve as judges, elders, witnesses and scribes; sue for divorce and receive child support. But later, in Greece, women had "degenerated into childbearing slaves." Roman law regarded women as harmless "imbeciles."

Christianity didn't improve Women's Lib. Viola Klein, Britannica 3's Betty Friedan, writes: "Although women were credited with a soul equal to men in the eyes of God, they were regarded as temptresses responsible for the fall of Adam and as second-class citizens." At least 100,000 women were burnt at stake as witches during the Middle Ages.

In 1838 when the Governesses Benevolent Institution of London proposed to hold an examination for a diploma it discovered, alas, that none of the women candidates had any knowledge worth examining.

On gold:
Gold is a rare metal found in relatively pure form in nature. Only about 80,000 tons have been mined in the entire history of the world. But its rarity is only part of its allure. It has a bright yellow lustrous color; it is malleable and can be worked into limitless shapes and forms. It is incredibly durable and can survive for centuries. It will not tarnish or corrode as other metals will.

The new news about gold is, of course, old news. For over 6,000 years man has found gold to his liking. According to Brit. 3, the Egyptians, Minoans, Assyrians and Etruscans all fabricated beautiful and elaborate works of art from gold. King Tutankhamen was buried in a gold coffin in 1352 B.C. It was 3/4 with frankincense and myrrh that the wise men brought to the Christ Child.

The Western Calendar:
Our calendar, which springs from ancient Jewish and Roman calendars, is governed in some parts by the moon and others by the sun.

The early Christians gave new significance to ancient Jewish feast days. Passover became Easter; pentecost, the Jewish Shavuoth — which marked the giving of the Ten Commandments on Mt. Sinai — emerged as the coming of the Holy Spirit to Christ's Apostles. Christmas, however, was based on both pagan and Roman traditions, where the 25th of December marked the winter solstice, when days would begin to get lighter. There was feasting and merrymaking on that date.

Soccer.

Letters To The Editor

EDITOR'S NOTE: While The Herald encourages open comments from its readers, the opinions expressed are not necessarily those of the management. Letters to the editor must be signed and should be of 300 words or less.

Dear Editor:

Everyone has some type of a handicap but the degree of handicap sometimes puts a person in a different category. There is a group of men in the Columbus area whose handicaps have forced them to be confined to wheelchairs. They did not wish to give up the pleasure which is derived from sports; so they have joined together to form a wheelchair basketball team known as the Buckeye Wheelers.

Saturday night at 7:30 p.m. at the Mill Street gym they are going to play a benefit game against teams from the JayCees and the faculty of Logan Elm School District. This group is an excellent example of what can be accomplished when the desire is great enough.

In addition to the benefits they derive from playing basketball they also enjoy the cheers and applause that accompanies a sports activity. I hope that the people of Circleville and surrounding areas will take advantage of seeing this unusual group of men and that you will be there to give them your encouragement which they so desperately need and which they so richly deserve.

RICHARD E. PLUM

They'll Do It Every Time

It makes our NFL and the Super Bowl look like peanuts:

Association football (correct name) was invented by the British, with variation of the game going back to Greek and Roman times. In the Middle Ages, whole towns would get out and play each other in dangerous melees. Edward II banned the game in 1314 on pain of imprisonment.

The ban didn't stick. Last year's World's Cup was followed by an estimated 1,000,000,000 fans around the world.

The estimate is wrong. The total was 1,000,000,001 fans. I was officially delegated to be the American who watched it on the telly.

Lots of other goodies in Britannica 3. Curl up with it some night. It only weighs a ton, but it puts the whole world in your hands.

Man Defeats Weather Forecaster

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — John McAdams says a cow with her tail in the wind, or a hog buried to his jowls in mud, is a better forecaster than an army of weathermen and its electronic gadgetry.

John could be right. He is holding an edge over the nearby Houston office of the National Weather Service.

John, 66, challenged meteorologist Irwin Bolbrecht to an 80-day test period on weather forecasting beginning Jan. 19.

The pair decided to forecast weather three times a week at a specific field in Huntsville where the weather service's rain gauge is located.

Irwin said okay, but he warned that "no one can tell Farmer Brown if it's going to rain on his field."

Phooey, said John, who claimed that simply by watching his cows and hogs he could predict not only where but when it would rain.

The contest was on. City utility director Boyd Wilder said he'd keep score.

Wilder says John has missed correctly forecasting rain only once in eight times. Irwin has missed four out of eight times.

How John does it may remain his secret.

"Well, I don't want to give away my secret," he said. "You just have to kinda watch 'em and notice things. I've been doing this for about 20 years. Just picked it up."

Pressed harder, however, John conceded that the direction in which a cow faces early in the mornings, or how deep into the mire a hog may burrow, tells an alert observer a lot about what the weather will do for the next day or so.

John also admitted that he counts on his arthritis a little.

Couple Indicted In Baby's Death

MUNCIE, Ind. (AP) — A Delaware County grand jury Thursday indicted a Muncie couple in the beating death of a 14-month-old baby.

David Gutchak, 22, and Vivian L. Hurst, 19, were charged with second degree murder in the death of the woman's daughter, Christina. She died at Ball Memorial Hospital early in January. Police said the child's body was covered with bruises.

The couple was held in the county jail pending arraignments.

The first Nobel prizes were awarded Dec. 10, 1901. Rene Prudhomme, France, won the literature award; peace award was shared by Henri Dunant, Switzerland, and Frederick Passy, France.

It required cash, good, hard cash to operate the Circleville city government, and no one knew that fact any better than the men who made up the city council.

Faced with a financial emergency that bobbed up every once in a while, the councilmen were confronted also with the necessity of spending money for various items that were vital to the city.

The city's general fund contained $367.44 and bills due from the general fund revenue totaled $1,061.39.

With a goal of 50 new uniforms set, a committee which was conducting a campaign to outfit the high school band decided at a meeting to start its solicitations immediately. Individuals as well as business firms, civic, fraternal, and religious organizations were to be canvassed in an effort to raise the necessary funds.

A series of depredations by sheep-killing dogs resulted in a decree by the dog warden that all owners must have their dogs under leash from a half hour before sundown until a half hour after sunup. Owners who defied the order were to be ordered into court.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

The laser beam has been, for years, explored for its value in certain types of surgery.

Now, a new device known as the "bloodless scalpel" may replace the laser beam in some instances.

Dr. John L. Glover, at the Indiana University Medical Center, is using this "bloodless scalpel," which is a special energized gas, for surgery of the lungs, the brain and the liver. These organs have such a rich blood supply that it is often difficult to control severe bleeding.

With this new jet-propelled gas scalpel, surgery can be performed and bleeding can be better controlled.

Dr. Glover and his collaborator, Dr. William J. Link, believe that this technique has a great many advantages in selected cases.

Excess vibrations, in the factory, while driving tractors and in other heavy industry jobs, may be the culprit in some physical conditions.

Dr. H. Haskell Zipperman, of the Southwest Research Institute, in San Antonio, Tex., recently found "significant evidence linking whole-body vibration to certain occupational diseases that interstate bus drivers develop."

He believes that "whole-body vibration could contribute to a number of vascular, bowel, respiratory, muscular and back disorders experienced by tractor drivers, truckers, bus drivers, train conductors and heavy equipment operators."

This important innovative concept may radically change the lives of many people who today are unprotected against massive whole-body vibration.

If subsequent studies continue to show vibration to be the responsible cause of varicose veins, hemorrhoids, and hernias, many new protective devices will be incorporated into industry.

The early studies of Dr. Zipperman were so significant that a comprehensive program has been undertaken by the National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health.

Far too many people pay a huge penalty for long-standing exposure to dangers that are unrecognized in their occupations.

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Despite slackening demand for many products, prices remain high — high enough for the Council on Wage and Price Stability to get a bit suspicious.

The council said it intends to examine the pricing structure of metal cans, rubber tires and industrial chemicals in an effort to determine why the law of supply and demand seems not to be working.

Without any further investigation, however, a handful of obvious reasons can be offered in explanation of why the market place doesn't react to a pull on the reins.

REBATES — Unable to forecast what twists and turns the economy might take even a few weeks ahead, sellers are reluctant to lower their prices. Instead, they offer rebates for temporary periods of time.

The beauty of the rebate is that it is presented as a gift. In effect, it is nothing more than recognition of the reality that goods can't be sold at the stated price.

The impact of this is to keep prices higher than the market can support. In a sense, it is a market subsidy provided by the seller who, for various reasons, prefers it that way.

One reason is that a price cut might prove to be only temporary. The seller's own costs could force him to raise prices later, if government price restraints aren't applied in the meantime.

DISCOUNT FROM LIST — Very much like a rebate. Many manufacturers have been practicing this technique for decades. You quote an official price and, if necessary, bargain down from it.

If conditions improve the seller isn't in the position of having to announce a price increase. He merely eliminates the discount. Ask the steel companies about this.

COST-PLUS PRICING — When a contractor quotes a certain price to produce a product he generally assumes the risk of keeping his costs low enough to leave him a profit. But with cost-plus contracts his risk is reduced greatly.

The cost-plus contract has long been popular in producing defense products, especially those in which huge sums are involved, as well as design changes and delays. But it is popular everywhere now.

One result is that a governor on prices is removed. Spend what you want to spend so long as you can defend it. You'll still make your profit because you'll merely charge a higher price for the job.

FLOATING INTEREST RATES — In more normal times banks lend money at a specified rate of interest, assuming the risk if rates subsequently rise in the market generally.

But that inflation monitor is removed by the floating interest rate. It permits a bank to lend money to a company that otherwise might not get a loan. It reduces the bank's risk, and permits it to make riskier loans.

Whereas in a fixed-rate loan the bank cannot collect any more than the agreed upon rate, it can do so with the floating rate. If rates rise 1 per cent, then the bank just sends the borrower a bigger bill.

Banks flooded the market with such loans. If they had been restricted to fixed-rate loans they wouldn't have.

ESCALATOR CLAUSES — A form of indexation, as now practiced in Social Security payments, union-management wage agreements and other areas. If the cost of living goes up, payments rise accordingly.

While few critics will argue that there isn't an element of justice in such arrangements, it can't be overlooked that still another restraint on inflation is removed.

Dayton Judges Carry Arms

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Some Dayton area judges, concerned about a national wave of courtroom violence, keep guns handy in their offices, courtrooms and homes.

Two judges, who asked not to be named, said they brought guns to their offices because they were concerned about increasing volumes of crank mail and annoying telephone calls.

Other judges said they had guns in their homes in the event of an attack outside regular working hours.

"You can never tell when someone might try to take a shot at you," one explained.

Judges with guns, as well as courtroom benches with reinforced bullet-proof plating and hidden microphones are some of the measures being used to tighten courtroom security.

Municipal Judge Jack H. Berger in Kettering now sits in his new courtroom behind a bench reinforced with bullet-proof armor. The plating extends to the area used by the court bailiff and stenographer.

At the Montgomery County Common Pleas Court, judges can switch on a hidden system of microphones that connect to a loudspeaker system at the county jail next door. In case of trouble, deputies can listen in and determine how to respond.

ROTARY GUEST—Bill Stout (right) introduced Don Preston, an exchange student from New Zealand, at Circleville Rotary meeting this week. Preston is visiting in the homes of Mr. and Mrs. William Richards and Mr. and Mrs. George Hamrick during his year-long stay here. He is attending Circleville High School.

We hope you're exercising your privilege to read books of your choosing and to use the facilities of your Pickaway County District Public Library.

Readers who enjoy the humor of Senator Sam Erwin will find a new supply in "Senator Sam Erwin's Best Stories" by Thad Stern, Jr. and Alan Butler. It's not a rehash of his TV appearances during Watergate but rather a fresh, new interview with the colorful Senator from North Carolina.

If you've ever wondered "Whatever Became Of..." that's the title of a new book by Richard Lamparski giving you the answers about 100 popular personalities. If nostalgia appeals to you, you'll enjoy the photos.

"The Incredible Egg" by Dai Stevens is the story of a billion year journey. It's the story of the evolution of life and survival of the species. It's written in an interesting and easy-to-read style.

A good book for lovers of birds and small wildlife is "Care Of The Wild Feathered and Furred" by Mae Hickman and Maxine Guy. It answers a lot of simple "what-to-do" questions and also has a section on teaching children how to help.

For people interested in the psychic, a serious book on the subject has been written by former astronaut Edgar D. Mitchell. Dr. Mitchell is now involved in research and is becoming a major force in psychic research. His new book is called "Psychic Exploration".

William A. Nolen, M.D. has written another fascinating book. "Healing" is the story of his search for any validity among faith healers, psychic surgeons and others. The author's discoveries will keep the reader's attention to the last page.

Admirers of Joan of Arc will find a new collection of material about the famous heroine. "Joan of Arc-Fact, Legend, and Literature" is by Jewkes and Landfield.

Ham operators and radio buffs will find the 1975 "Radio Amateurs Handbook" on the shelf.

Mystery, adventure and family saga make up the new fiction titles. "King's Royal" by John Quigley is set in Scotland. It's the novel of a great Scotch whisky dynasty. It's a monumental novel of the disparate dreams of two dynamic men.

Thomas Gifford has won the Putnam Award for his novel "The Wind Chill Factor". If you enjoy adventure and suspense, you'll find it as John Cooper uncovers a neo-Nazi plot to conquer the world with the Fourth Reich.

Mystery and intrigue are the ingredients of "Mademoiselle B" by Maurice Pons. It's the translation of a French novel.

Fans of the Mrs. Pollifax stories are in for a treat. Dorothy Gilman has created two new unorthodox detectives. Sister John and Sister Hyacinthe from St. Tabitha's Abbey make their first appearance in a charming escapade called "A Nun In The Closet."

Colin Watson is noted for his witty, weird and earthy adventures. "Six Nuns And A Shotgun" seems to hold to that formula. It's written for fans of the humorous mystery.

Set in the Mediterranean, "The Snake On The Grave" by George Beare has all the necessary complications to satisfy a reader of modern mystery.

"The Shootist" by Glendon Swarthout is more than just a western. It's the story of a gunfighter forced to face his own death by disease. His solution to the problem carries the plot.

February would be a good month to start your Bicentennial reading. Be sure to check our shelf on American history in fact and fiction. America has a great heritage. Your library can help you discover it.

DuPont Completes Safe Year

WILMINGTON, Del. — The more than 100,000 employees of the DuPont Company completed 1974 with the second best safety performance in the company's 172-year history, both on and off the job.

The on-the-job rate last year declined to 0.21 time-losing injuries per million hours of exposure. It was 0.30 in 1973. In addition, a new record of 47 consecutive days between major injuries was established during 1974.

DuPont's all-time record for on-the-job safety occurred in 1972 when employees achieved a frequency rate of only 0.16.

Employees' off-the-job performance was 4.38 lost-time injuries per million exposure hours, slightly better than the 4.52 rate for 1973.

DuPont employees work at 96 plants in 30 states, at construction sites and in offices and laboratories. Their on-the-job performance is 20 times better than that of the chemical industry as a whole and 50 times better than the record for all industry.

Employees suffered 45 time-losing injuries on the job in 1974, compared to 60 the previous year. There were only 31 lost-time injuries during the company's best year.

Continuing their safe performance during 1974 were employees of the company's plant near Winston, N.C., who established a new world industrial safety record in September, 1973, by exceeding 45,800,000 exposure hours without a lost-time injury. The plant's 3,064 employees at the end of 1974 had worked 53,447,653 hours without a time-lost injury. This surpasses the previous world safety mark by 7,600,000 exposure hours.

Miss Sharon Kay Lemaster Bride Of Timothy Pittenger

MR. AND MRS. TIMOTHY PITTENGER

In a candlelight ceremony Miss Sharon Kay Lemaster and Mr. Timothy J. Pittenger exchanged marriage vows 6:30 p.m., Jan. 18th, in the Church of Christ in Christian Union, Jefferson Addition.

The Rev. Leighton McFerren officiated the double ring service for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norfus Sandy Lemaster, Route 2, Circleville, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Pittenger, Route 4, Chillicothe.

Mrs. Lloyd Stines, organist, presented a half-hour program of nuptial selections preceding the wedding. Vases of pink roses and white carnations graced the altar table flanked with seven branch candelabra. White satin bows marked the pews. A single candle was placed in the center of the altar and was lighted by the couple during the ceremony to signify the union.

The bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father. She selected for her wedding a formal length gown fashioned of white scalloped chantilly lace. The tiered bouffant skirt flowed softly to a chapel length train and was tied at the waist with a peau d'ange bow. The bodice featured a sabrina neckline edged in scallops and long sleeves ending in bridal points over her hands. A tiered elbow length veil of illusion was caught to a cluster of lace petals trimmed with pearls and crystals. The bride carried a cascade bouquet of pink roses, white carnations and baby's breath.

Miss Sandra Lemaster was maid of honor for her sister in a formal length gown of burgundy polyester with an empire waistline and leg-o-mutton sleeves. She carried a single long stemmed pink rose with matching streamers. A bow matching her gown held a brief veil.

Bridesmaids were Miss Sally Lemaster, sister of the bride, Miss Darlene Quincel and Mrs. Teresa Pritchard. They were gowned as the honor attendant in pink and carried matching roses.

Miss Rebecca Brady, cousin of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a pink and burgundy full length gown fashioned as the attendants' and carried a basket of pink rose petals which she scattered down the aisle ahead of the bride.

Master David Kinnamon carried the rings on a white satin pillow as he performed his duties as ring bearer.

Best man was Mr. David Green. Mr. Mark Pittenger and Mr. Barry Pittenger, brothers of the bridegroom and Mr. Jim Pritchard were ushers.

The bride's mother was attired in a princess style street length dress of pale pink polyester knit with matching accessories. The bridegroom's mother, also in pale pink, wore a two piece ensemble. Their corsages were of white carnations, pink roses and baby's breath.

A reception at the L-K Restaurant followed the ceremony. The bride's table was centered with a four tiered cake with the two top tiers separated with tall columns and the traditional bride and groom figurines and pink roses placed at the top. Vases holding white carnations and pink roses flanked the cake, a gift from Mr. and Mrs. Gene Lindsey.

Hostesses were Miss Shirley Lemaster, sister of the bride; Miss Paula Pittenger, sister of the bridegroom; Miss June Lemaster, Miss Nancy Lemaster, Miss Cathey Lemaster, cousin of the bride, and Mrs. Ruby Wise. Miss Sharon Snyder presided at the guest register.

As the couple left for a wedding trip to an undisclosed destination the bride was wearing a burgundy and beige dress topped with a matching jacket, and a corsage of white carnations, burgundy roses and baby's breath. The couple will reside at 24½ York St., Peru, Ind.

The new Mrs. Pittenger is a 1973 graduate of Circleville High School and was formerly employed by Lindsey's Bakery.

Mr. Pittenger is a 1972 graduate of Zane Trace High School and is currently serving with the United States Air Force stationed at Grissom AFB, Kokomo, Ind.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were from Dayton, Ashville, Columbus, Williamsport, Chillicothe, Amanda, Adelphi, Londonderry, Wellston, Ohio, and Inez, Ky.

Honor guests were Mr. and Mrs. Herschel Richards, grandparents of the bridegroom.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Nothing Wrong With Saying "I Like You"

DEAR ABBY: I am writing about the number of girls who have written to you saying: "How can I get a guy interested in me without having it look like I'm chasing him?"

First off, I am a 21-year-old college man who would like some reasonable answers to the following questions:

1. Why can't a girl ask a guy out for a date? As a male, I would welcome girls who find me attractive enough to ask me out. Believe me, Abby, I'm fairly attractive myself and get my share of dates, but I see nothing wrong with girls being on an equal basis with men when it comes to the dating game.

2. Why can't a girl be the aggressive one if she so chooses?

3. Why is it "wrong" for a girl to pursue guys?

I.W.: BRONX, N.Y.

DEAR I.W.: Where have you been? Plenty of girls ask guys out. More girls ask guys "over," however, because there is no tab to pick up, which takes the pressure off both of them.

And many girls ARE aggressors. They don't apologize for it. Nor should they. All relationships should be based on honesty. And what's more disarming than having someone say "I like you"? It doesn't matter who says it first. Girls are people, and people shouldn't play games. They should express themselves honestly, naturally and without embarrassment.

DEAR ABBY: In a courtship between a woman 65, and a man 67, who should offer the first kiss?

Please don't think this is a joke. It isn't. I am a widow and he is a widower and we are getting very close to where I will need the answer to the above question.

If he should make the first move in that direction I want to know if I should act coy, or should I respond? Or am I the one who should make the advances to let him know I am not adverse to a romantic relationship? (I am not, but I don't want to push it.)

Women used to sit back and let the man make all the overtures, but perhaps women's lib has changed all that. Or has it?

PROPER BUT PUZZLED

DEAR PUZZLED: If you feel like kissing him, go ahead and kiss him. He'll probably meet you halfway and beat you to the finish line.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I live next door to my son and his wife. They have only one child, a lovely 17-year-old daughter. She goes with a very nice 18-year-old neighbor boy.

My son and his wife went skiing over the weekend and left their daughter home alone unchaperoned. She's a good girl, but I think it looked bad. (I wasn't even asked to look in on her.)

We live in the kind of community where everybody knows everything that goes on, so I told my daughter-in-law that leaving her young daughter like that might cause the girl to be talked about, even though her behavior was the best.

She told me to mind my own business!

Was I wrong to say what I did, Abby? I was only warning her that gossip could start. So far I haven't heard anything, but I am 63 years old and I've seen innocent girls fall victim to vicious gossip. Was I wrong?

CONCERNED GRANNY

DEAR CONCERNED: You meant well, but obviously your "concern" was not appreciated. Don't offer any more unsolicited advice, Granny.

NSA Secretaries Select Program Topic

For NSA's 13th annual February Program of the Year in 1975, Members of The National Secretaries Association (International) will focus on the topic of "Political Science."

According to Maxine M. Andregg, president of NSA's Roundtown Chapter and secretary to Wayne L. Lash, county supervisor of the Farmers Home Administration, the 1975 Program of the Year meeting will be held locally 6:30 p.m., Feb. 12th at Pickaway Arms.

Specific aspects of political science to be probed by the NSA Chapter will be presented by The Panel of American Women, an independent organization informing the public of the different aspects of human relations.

Mrs. Andregg said that the chapter is one of more than 700 in the United States, Canada, and Puerto Rico participating in NSA's Program of the Year.

Ursulle Gallerani, CPS, NSA's international president, who is secretary to Dr. Fred L. Whipple, senior scientist, Smithsonian Institution Astrophysical Observatory, Cambridge, Mass., made this observation about the program topic:

"Secretaries, as good citizens, are concerned with improving and protecting the democratic process. That is why NSA has undertaken a program of political science. Ignorance and indifference is no excuse for poor government. We can only make something work effectively by understanding how it works.

Democrats May Split Budget Bill

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Some Democrats in the Ohio House are talking quietly about splitting up the next two-year state budget bill, isolating those items on which they anticipate possible vetoes by Republican Gov. James A. Rhodes.

Although they dominate both the House and the Senate in the 111th General Assembly, Democrats lack one vote in the House to give them the three-fifths majority they need to override vetoes, even if their own party ranks held firm.

They run the House, 59-40, with 60 needed to override.

Although Rhodes could veto line items in an all-encompassing appropriations bill, Democrats said they would like to spotlight his actions on issues such as mass transportation about which the governor has been less than enthusiastic.

The $80.5 million budget surplus that rocked former Gov. John J. Gilligan's re-election campaign last summer still haunts Democrats.

At a House committee meeting on a bill that would use the money for an across-the-board supplemental school appropriation, Minority Leader Charles F. Kurfess, R-83 Perrysburg, said:

"I don't blame them (Democrats) for jumping in first and being the first one in the water this time."

Referring to Gilligan's initial denial that a surplus existed, Kurfess observed that some people "got burned."

Rep. George D. Tablack, D-52 Campbell, replied, "The people that were burned are gone."

The packed committee room erupted in laughter.

Although as a lame duck, former Gov. Gilligan by law had to present a budget in his state-of-the-state speech to the legislature, he surprised some politicians by its length, 155 pages.

Rep. Myrl Shoemaker, D-88 Bourneville, House Finance Committee chairman, said, "Gilligan had no intention of presenting a budget."

He said Democrats in the 111th General Assembly pressured him into it.

Clermont County, oldest county in Ohio, will be 175 years old next Dec. 6,

Secretary of State Ted W. Brown reports.

Second oldest of the state's 88 counties is Fairfield, which will be 175 on Dec. 9.

An act of the Northwest Territorial legislature created the counties in 1800, three years before Ohio became a state.

Shipping Still Using Lakes

DETROIT (AP)—If thick ice fails to form along the St. Mary River before Sunday, the Great Lakes will have its longest shipping season.

And it is all but certain the ice won't form that soon, according to Col. James Hays, district engineer for the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers' Detroit district.

"If temperatures remain above normal, we could even go year-around," Hays said Thursday.

Ice thick enough to halt all cargo shipping needs three to five days of below-zero temperatures to form, Hays said.

He predicted a record season, since never before have ships been able to enter Lake Superior from the lower lakes past Feb. 8. At present, nine U.S. Steel ore carriers are running through the Poe Lock to continue a shipping season that began March 28.

The Poe Lock, largest of the four along the St. Mary, is to close March 1 for routine maintenance. But, Hays said, if the ice has not formed by then, the Corps will open the MacArthur Lock. That smaller lock still is large enough for use by six of the nine vessels still on the Lakes.

'Arson And Old Lace' Fires Bring Sisters To Court

NEW YORK (AP) — Two elderly sisters have been arrested on an arson charge and are suspected in an "Arson and Old Lace" scheme involving more than 400 fires and millions of dollars in insurance claims, authorities say.

The 12-year pattern of suspicious fires suggests the work of "one of the biggest arson rings" ever encountered

Glenn Blasts Ford Budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio, said Friday President Ford's projection of continuous unemployment of between 7.5 and 8.1 per cent indicates "even he doesn't feel his nearly billion-dollar-a-day budget will adequately stimulate the economy."

Glenn described Ford's predictions of continued unemployment and double-digit inflation for the next three years as "a confession of economic mismanagement."

The Ohio Democrat said in a statement that government leaders failed to "grapple with energy shortages until the embargo-induced energy crisis became an energy catastrophe and contributed a major share to this recession."

He said the nation has needed a three-pronged approach to energy including conservation, increased domestic petroleum exploration and development of alternative fuel sources.

"Instead, President Ford's oil tax will have the effect of making too-high petroleum prices unbearably high, in turn raising the price of virtually everything and taking buying power from consumers — contributing further to a business slowdown," he added.

Ohio Senate Report

By OAKLEY C. COLLINS
17th District Senator

The supplemental funding bill for education continues to generate extensive controversy and not a little partisan debate. As in the House, majority Democrats in the Senate rejected several Republican amendments in passing this measure along partisan lines. At the time of this writing, a veto of this bill by Governor Rhodes is possible. He has proposed an alternate plan and there is considerable feeling in the General Assembly that this particular bill flies in the face of recent recommendations by a bipartisan Education Review Committee to revamp the state aid-to-education formula.

Compromise will probably characterize action on several controversial bills in the Senate and House which would dilute or nullify the 28-year-old Ferguson Act. This law, which prohibits Ohio's 350,000 state, county and local employees from striking, is the target of organized labor and majority Democrats in the Legislature.

The half-dozen bills now in committee would, among other things, specify regulations for public employee labor relations and collective bargaining procedures, prescribe reprisals for strike activity, and define conditions under which public employee strikes would be legal.

While fair wage standards, benefits and job security must be provided for public employees, sanctions should also be maintained against strikes that endanger the health and welfare of the community. A workable solution requires mutual concern for the public interests and those who labor in its behalf.

Increased public accountability of governmental operations is the goal of a bill recently introduced in the Ohio House of Representatives which eliminates executive (closed) sessions of state and local boards or agencies, confirms the public's right to know what business the government conducts in its behalf. In the wake of cynical Democrat maneuvering in the recent "Six Day War" this bill should help restore public confidence in our governmental institutions.

Widespread agreement on public needs often produces bipartisan cooperation in the General Assembly, as in the case of growing legislative concern over operating efficiency and rate rulings of the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio (PUCO). A broad coalition of Republicans and Democrats has introduced a number of bills and resolutions to investigate PUCO operations and organizations, and to alter utility rate formulas.

Tigers Pop Panthers For Another SCOL Win

By BOB BENSONHAVER
Herald Staff Writer

The Circleville Tiger basketball machine rolled to an 84-54 win over the Miami Trace Panthers in the second highest scoring game of the season Friday night.

Playing to a packed Mill Street gym crowd, the Tigers placed four men in double figures.

Friday's win is the 16th straight this year for John Lawhorn's Tigers, who have already captured the SCOL crown. They are also rated number one by the Associated Press in Class AA and third in the UPI poll of coaches.

George Moore took honors leading the Red and Black with 28 points. He hit for eight field goals and 12 shots at the stripe.

The last starter to leave the game with 1:29 left on the clock, Moore also led the Tigers with 11 rebounds.

Hitting the double figures was Perry Hoskins with five from the field and two at the foul line for 12 points. Harold Reed hit five field goals and six at the stripe for 16.

Mike McCoy connected for five from the floor with two at the free throw line for 12.

Biff Bumgarner made two field shots and stripped the nets for four at the line for eight points and Phil Roll hit three shots from the floor and connected two at the charity stripe for eight.

Along with Moore's 11 rebounds, Bumgarner had nine, Reed had seven, McCoy had three, Hoskins and Roll had two each and Spangler had one.

The Tigers had 11 turnovers compared to the Panthers' 18. McCoy was credited with seven of the 15 assists by the Tigers.

For the second time in two games the Tigers dropped below the 50 per cent shooting. They hit for 28 of 58 shots for 48 per cent.

The Panthers connected on 21 of 51 shots for a 41 per cent. Trace had 18 rebounds with Dan Gifford leading the pack with four.

Leading scorer for the Panthers was Alan Conner with 14 points. He connected for five field goals and four at the stripe.

Also hitting double figures for the Panthers was Dan Gifford clearing five field shots for 10 points.

The Tigers played consistently throughout the entire contest.

Reed scored with only eight seconds marked off the clock to give the Red and Black the two point jump.

The Panthers jumped back, but the Tigers ate the nets to give them a 16-8 lead at the end of the first quarter.

The second period was not any different than the first. The Tigers scored 20 points to the Panthers' 16, giving Circleville a 36-24 halftime lead.

Unspotted and near perfect, the Tiger machine came out of the locker room only to burn the nets again, scoring 20 points to the Panthers' 10 and taking a 22-point margin in the third period.

Coach Lawhorn apparently saw the opportunity to substitute players. Though who would know the second stringer were not as hot as the starters.

Spangler came in for Reed, with Mancini and Roll substituting for Hoskins and Bumgarner. Also coming from the bench were Massie, Williams, Merrill, Marshal and Yamarick.

The rampaging Tigers hit for a small rally in the fourth period before anyone could break them up.

Superb playing was performed by Hoskins who would go right through the middle of the crowd for a layup shot, Reed who came from the outside corner, and Moore who was right in the center of the group making shots here and there.

The Panthers' Conner ended the game with five seconds showing on the clock making two foul shots with the Tigers coming out on top in a runaway game.

Circleville travels to Hillsboro Tuesday for the last of SCOL competition this year.

A RUNAWAY—The Tigers man-to-man defense whittled away at the Panthers offense in a runaway game 84-54 Friday. DRIVE FOR HOOP—Westfall's Chris Riddle (42) gets around Mike Beverly as he drives for the basket in the Mustang's 61-41 loss to Adena. David Givens (13) moves in to help while Brad Beatty and Kevin Reid (54) watch.

Westfall Is Beaten 61-41 In SVC

"Too much Licking Heights is what really hurt us," Westfall coach Mike Eckle said of the Mustangs' 61-41 loss to Adena in a Scioto Valley Conference game played on the losers' court Friday.

"The kids were super-glad to hear we drew them in the tournament and they just didn't think of anything else while they were on the floor," according to the coach. Licking Heights had a 2-14 record at the time of the tournament draw.

The Adena defense, the full court press and the pressure man-to-man typical of Ron Hall coached teams, had its effect on the Mustangs too. The Mustangs had 18 turnovers, ten of them coming in the first half.

Westfall's leading scorer, Brad Beatty, was shut off without a point last night. Big Kevin Reid had a good night, scoring 19 points on eight shots from the field and three fouls, and pulled down five rebounds, but otherwise the Mustang attack was flat.

Jeff Karshner was the second leading scorer with eight points and five rebounds, Chris Riddle and Bill Hamman scored four each, Greg Varney scored two and Terry Hanson one.

Adena featured a balanced attack with Clark Gilmore scoring 15, Mike Beverly 14, Rick Hill 12 and David Givens 10. The Mustangs outbounded the visiting Warriors, 29-21.

From the field Westfall shot only 41 per cent, 20 per cent in the first quarter when they could do no better than four points. Adena had a 50 per cent night from the floor.

Westfall made only five free throws and had tried only two shots from the foul line going into the fourth quarter, and this against a team that used the full court press the entire game.

Coach Eckle, although unhappy with the loss, praised Reid and Varney. "Kevin really did a good job coming off the bench and Greg made things happen when he was in there," Eckle commented.

"The only good thing that happened was that Licking Heights were here to scout us and they didn't see a thing," he said.

The loss killed the Mustangs hopes of sharing second place in the Scioto

Valley Conference and clinched the Warriors' right to the runner-up spot.

Southeastern wrapped the title up with a 91-66 victory over Paint Valley last night. This is Southeastern's first year in the Scioto Valley Conference.

The reserve game was the thriller of the game, with the lead changing hands throughout the test before Adena finally pulled out a 36-35 win in the closing seconds.

Mike Carter paced the Westfall reserves with a 13 point effort and Roll led the visitors with 13 points.

The Westfall reserve team has a 10-7 record and Adena an 8-8 mark. Westfall's Varsity is 7-10 overall and 5-6 in the league. Adena is 10-6 overall and 9-3 in the conference.

Westfall ends the regular season next Friday at Southeastern.

Tiger Reserves Fall To Trace

Reserve Tigers were left standing with no where to go when they dropped a 54-32 tilt to the Panther reserves.

The Tigers were behind the entire game with the smallest point margin coming in the first period when the Jayvees were only three points behind Trace.

Frank Merrill was the leading scorer for the reserve with seven field goals and one foul shot for 15 points.

Tom Taylor connected for two field shots and three at the stripe, Brian Price hit for one shot and two free throws and Mearle Logan, Rusty Holbrook, and Brad Allison had two points each.

Leading scorers for the Panther reserves were Dunn with 17 points, Ervin with 12, and Rodgers who connected for 11 points.

Vikes Bump Hamilton Twp. For Share Of Metro Lead

Teays Valley used a pressure 1-2-2 zone defense and a balanced scoring attack to rip Hamilton Twp. 75-71 Friday night in the Ranger gym and climb back into a tie for the Metro League lead with HT.

Both teams are 10-3 in the Metro with one game to play. Next Friday, Teays Valley will host West Jefferson and Hamilton will go against Franklin Heights in Metro finales.

The pressure-packed Viking win also avenges a 74-41 loss to the Rangers Jan. 3 that knocked TV out of first place in the loop.

The game was not an easy one for Teays Valley, which had a 19-point lead midway through the third period, but only a two-point edge with two minutes left in the game. But TV hit six of 11 foul shots in the closing minutes to seal the win.

Kevin Pettibone and Terry Collins shared high point honors with 15 each. Pettibone scored on five shots from the floor and five of 11 free throws, while Collins hit four baskets and seven straight foul shots.

Bill Browning scored 14 points for the Vikings, Chuck Glitt had 12, George Spohn had 10, and Lee Stiles scored nine.

Stiles played a strong second half for the Vikings, ripping down 15 of the team's 35 rebounds. The Rangers picked up 36 rebounds in the game.

But it was the TV defense that won the game.

Coach Bob Hoover's Vikings played a shuffling 1-2-2 zone that almost shut-off the Ranger inside game. With Collins and Browning working the sides, they limited Paul Hillerich, the high average Ranger scorer, to just 10 points.

And Pettibone hawked high-scoring Greg Tope in the front court to limit him to 13 points.

Both players didn't see the end of the game, however.

Tope was ejected from the contest with 4:48 remaining in the third period after he shoved Pettibone into the gymnasium wall. And Hillerich and Tom Green fouled out, Hillerich with 5:33 to play in the game.

Dan Kayse was high man for the Rangers with 16 points. Tope had 13, and Hillerich and Jack Moore had 10 each.

With Glitt hitting for eight first periods points, Teays Valley jumped off to a commanding 21-12 lead at the quarter change.

And Spohn canned all of his 10 markers in the second quarter as the Vikes held on to a 40-30 lead at the half.

The Vikings opened the third period against the Ranger full-court press and promptly went to work under the basket.

Stiles tipped in a bucket, hit a short corner shot, and Browning tipped one in for a 46-32 TV lead with 5:02 left in the period.

Then Kevin Pettibone was driven into the wall by Tope with 4:48 left in the period on the ejection call.

Somewhat shaken, Pettibone missed the first of two foul shots. But he canned the next, and Terry Collins added two technical shots. And off the technical inbounds, Pettibone poured one in from the key for a 51-32 Viking lead with 4:25 left in the period.

But the Rangers caught fire, scoring 13 points to just one for Teays Valley in a three and a half minute stretch to cut the lead to 52-45.

But Pettibone hit from the key with 14 seconds remaining and Browning added two free throws with seven seconds left in the period for a 56-45 edge.

Collins opened the final quarter with two free throws, but Hamilton came back with six points to cut the lead to 58-51 with 5:52 left.

The margin stayed between seven and nine points through the middle of the period.

But after Collins was given credit for a layup on a goal-tending call, Hamilton reeled off eight straight counters to shave the Viking lead to 67-65 with 2:18 left.

In the deafening noise from the capacity crowd, the Vikes were able to score at the foul line in the last two minutes off the HT press. And, with seven seconds remaining, Browning capped the game with a back-door layup.

Teays Valley, after shooting 53 per cent from the floor in the first period, managed 47 per cent for the game on 25 of 53 shots. The Vikes were 25 of 40 at the foul line.

Hamilton, forced to take long-range shots, canned 26 of 73 for 35 per cent. They were 19 of 22 at the line.

It was a big win for Coach Hoover's crew, who will be going for their second straight Metro League title Friday in the final regular season game.

"Glitt played a real fine game for us," he said, commenting on the defensive and offensive efforts of his senior guard.

"And Stiles did a great job controlling the boards."

In other league games Friday, Franklin Heights bumped Dublin 81-63, West Jefferson upset Olentangy 56-55, and Grandview bombed Marysville 76-59.

Franklin Heights is 9-4 on the season, Olentangy 8-5; West Jefferson 7-6, Grandview 6-7, and Marysville and Dublin 1-12.

Logan Elm Falls To CW, 108-85

Logan Elm became Canal Winchester's 16th victim of the year Friday, taking a 108-85 pounding on the Indians' tiny hardwood.

Jeff Black set a CW scoring record in the Mid State contest, bombing 14 of 28 from the field and hooping 17 at the charity line for a 45-point total, eclipsing the old Indian record by three points.

He scored 31 points in the first half to give the winners a 50-39 edge.

"I can't help but feel their floor was a tremendous advantage," LE coach Asa Bradbury said. "But I don't want to take anything away from them. They are a tremendous team, and I feel we were as well prepared for this game as any we played this year. We just couldn't take anything away from them defensively. They controlled the tempo of the game."

Although unhappy with the LE defense, Bradbury saw some bright spots in the offense with four cagers hitting in double figures. Jeff Reichelderfer led the Braves with 24 points, Scott Pontius scored 19, Matt Martin 16 and Steve Rawlins tallied 10.

Rounding out the LE scoring, Scott Allen tallied six, Derek Morrison, Phil Manson and Neil Overman scored two each.

For the winners, Stuebe and Burtner scored 16 each, Golden tallied 13 and Seymour 12.

The Braves connected on 38 of 88 shots from the field and nine of 17 at the foul line. Canal Winchester hit 41 of 92 from the field and 26 of 33 from the

Bies Grabs Hope Classic Golf Lead

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — There was a rather wistful quality to Don Bies' voice as he observed: "I feel that somewhere along the way I deserve to win one."

He hasn't yet. In six full years on the pro golf tour the slender, soft-spoken, 37-year-old Bies has won more than $280,000 in prize money—but he has yet to collect a title.

He took a major step in the right direction Friday, though, when he slipped, almost unobserved, past suddenly scrambling Johnny Miller and into the third-round lead in the $160,000 Bob Hope Desert Golf Classic.

Bies, a low-key type who attracts no galleries, has no idiosyncracies, dresses conservatively and blends into the crowd, took his surprise lead with a six-under-par 66 that vaulted him one stroke in front of the phenomenal Miller and Tom Shaw, a still-bubbly character despite three years of trials and troubles.

Bies had a 54-hole total of 204, 10 under par with 36 holes to go in this unique, five-day, 90-hole event that is spread over four desert courses.

Miller, who established a three-stroke lead after two rounds and appeared ready to score another runaway victory, and Shaw were one back at 205. Miller went to a scramble par 72 and Shaw had a 69.

John Mahaffey, Jerry Heard and veteran Miller Barber were one more back at 206. Heard had a four-under-par 68, Mahaffey and Barber each a 69.

Arnold Palmer, still fighting a balky putter, shot a 71 that he called "kinda boring." The five-time winner of this tournament was seven shots behind at 211. Lee Trevino, Jack Nicklaus and Gary Player are not competing.

North Carolina Drops Furman, 86-81

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Whoever made up the schedule for Furman's basketball team didn't do the Paladins any favors this weekend.

They play two of the nation's Top Twenty teams on successive nights. The Paladins, visiting Charlotte, N.C., were treated rudely by 12th-ranked North Carolina Friday night and play North Carolina State tonight on the heels of that 86-81 loss.

"I'm looking forward to playing Furman," said North Carolina State Coach Norm Sloan. "They are a big, strong team and stayed with North Carolina right down to the wire."

No Interleague Trades

NEW YORK (AP) — There will be no interleague baseball shopping this spring, which has made the buyers very unhappy and the merchandise a little more secure.

The merchandise is the membership of the Major League Baseball Players Association, which put a stop to baseball's plan to run a second season of interleague trading.

"The owners voted upon this second inter-league trading period at their winter meetings in December in New Orleans," said Marvin Miller, executive director of the players association. "The players were meeting separately in Las Vegas. They read it in the papers. The owners then go and announce to the press that it's done."

"Non-conference games like this give us an opportunity to use players who don't get a chance to play a lot."

The Paladins may not share Sloan's viewpoint. They'd no doubt prefer not to play two tough games in succession. Friday night's game took all they had to give, it seemed.

"We played as well as we're capable of playing, which is my way of saying that Furman is one of the best teams we've played this season," said North Carolina Coach Dean Smith. "They have an excellent team and Clyde Mayes is great."

North Carolina's victory came in the first game of a doubleheader. North Carolina State whipped Georgia Tech 101-66 in the second game to complete a sweep of outsiders by Atlantic Coast Conference teams.

In other games involving ranked teams, No. 2 UCLA stopped Oregon State 67-60; No. 8 Southern Cal nipped No. 9 Oregon 81-80 and No. 20 Penn drubbed Columbia 113-69.

Mitch Kupchak, hospitalized briefly earlier in the week with an ailing back, scored 23 points and Walter Davis added 22 to lead North Carolina's victory. North Carolina, resorting to its four-corner stall offense in the last six minutes, broke a seven-game winning streak by Southern Conference leader Furman.

The Paladins, 13-5, led through most of the first half and were on top 37-36 at intermission with 50 per cent shooting. Fessor Leonard, 7-foot-1 Furman center, drew his fourth personal foul in the opening minute of the second half and then sat out for about 10 minutes.

Immediately after he left, the Tar Heels shot into a 46-41 lead, but Craig Lynch went on a 14-point tear for Furman to shoot the Paladins ahead 55-48 with 13:30 left. North Carolina regained the lead for good on two Kupchak free throws with eight minutes to play. The four corners produced numerous Furman fouls and North Carolina, 13-5, scored its last 10 points from the free throw line.

Furman's scoring was led by Lynch and Mayes, each with 24 points, and Ronnie Smith with 15.

David Thompson's 31 points in 29 minutes led North Carolina State past Georgia Tech. Thompson, the nation's leading scorer with a 31.8 average at game time, led the Wolfpack to a 54-35 first-half lead with 14 wonderful minutes of play.

In that span, he scored 17 points, hitting seven of 12 shots, led all rebounders with seven and had two assists. When Thompson opened the second half with two layup baskets, the Rambling Wreck was exactly that.

"Overall, I'm pleased," said Sloan. "It's difficult to keep your concentration when you get a big lead in a hurry."

UCLA, trailing the entire first half, outscored Oregon State 8-0 after the break and stopped the Beavers to grab first place in the Pacific-8 Conference. Sophomore Richard Washington scored 17 of his game-high 21 points in the second half as the Bruins boosted their Pac-8 record to 5-1 and 16-2 overall. Sophomore forward Don Smith topped Oregon State with 20 points.

Southern California's Bob Trowbridge sank three free throws, his only points of the game, in the final 39 seconds as the Trojans edged Oregon 81-80. The victory moved Southern Cal into a three-way tie for second place with Stanford and Oregon State, all at 4-2. Oregon's conference mark fell to 3-3.

Gus Williams, the Trojans' premier guard, led all scorers with 28 points.

Ron Haigler and Mark Lonetto combined for 40 points to lead Penn over Columbia. The victory kept the Quakers atop the Ivy League race.

BASIC TRAINING

Today's newspaper carriers — tomorrow's leaders. Statistically, that's how it stacks up.

In view of this, your newspaper carrier is on the first chapter of what will probably be a success story. Not that he's destined for the Hall of Fame — but he might be. For example, Dwight D. Eisenhower, Herbert Hoover, Eddie Rickenbacker, Thomas Edison, Joe DiMaggio, Walt Disney, and Bob Hope all started as newspaperboys.

Newspaper route experience helps mold those special character ingredients so necessary for success in any field: self discipline, punctuality, getting along with people, responsibility. And all the hundred and one other character-makers that are built into the management of a newspaper route.

This could well be the most important training in his life. In the long range picture, the money he earns on his route almost seems like a fringe benefit.

Our Circulation Department people are always glad to talk it over with youngsters and parents. If you have a son or daughter or know a boy or girl who might profit from newspaper carrier experience, we'll be happy to hear from you.

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR SUNDAY
ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): Conscientious application of your talents now will bring gains for some time to come. But you MUST have confidence in yourself—and in your goals.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Keep your eye on the ball and your stock will soar. A "meeting of minds" could produce some revelations, startling new ideas which could eventually prove profitable.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): An energetic ally may come to your support, personally or financially. Push all worthwhile aims. Especially favored: outdoor pursuits, organizational activities.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): A vital period. Most endeavors should prosper, but think before you speak or act. And do avoid extremes. There is a trend now to the unusual, even the bizarre.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Good stellar influences should help you to solve difficult problems now. But don't be carried away by your vivid imagination which, properly directed, can bring you great success.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): A number of things will have to be organized before you can proceed efficiently. Emphasize composure, delicacy of approach, calmness in discussion.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Certain situations could annoy IF you permit. Take all in stride. Also, think well before making decisions. Some revisions in your thinking could bring about better results.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): Follow a flexible program, geared smartly to the needs of the day. Present new ideas briefly and lucidly. Expect the unexpected.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): Avoid a present tendency toward impulsiveness. In moments of stress, SLOW DOWN—rather than take steps to a position from which it may be hard to extricate yourself.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Generous influences stimulate your ingenuity and imagination. Use both well, and rewards will please. Reach into the unusual; study new trends.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Differences of opinion need not result in needless rifts. Get together with those concerned and, with calmness and your innate sense of humor, you can straighten out any situation.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): You cannot afford to take wild chances, but neither should you be hesitant, timid, unsure. Somewhere in between is the sensible, intelligent road. YOU can find it!

YOU BORN TODAY, a native of the second decan of Aquarius, are extremely versatile, ambitious and enterprising; can reach the loftiest of positions even from most humble beginnings. Enthusiastic about life and everything it has to offer, obstacles never discourage you. They merely act as challenges for you to meet and conquer. You loathe the injustice of any kind and will defend the weak to your last breath. Highly creative, you could carve an enviable career in the fields of writing, painting, music or interior decorating, but you also make excellent scientists (especially in the world of medicine), statesmen and entertainers. Look It Up In Anderson

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — From the Watergate trial to local courts throughout the United States, Drexel University's Ronald A. Anderson appears as an authority.

Not Dr. Anderson in person, but some of the 85 volumes he has published. Publishers' records show that the law professor has written more professional, collegiate and business law texts than any other author at any time or in any language. They believe that at least one of his texts is used every day by one or more U.S. courts.

Dr. Anderson's "Wharton Criminal Law and Procedure," "Wharton's Criminal Evidence" and "Couch's Cyclopaedia of Insurance" are references of in the U.S. Supreme Court Library. His criminal texts have been referred to in the Watergate coverup trial. His "Business Law" is studied in 1,000 universities and his "Insurer's Tort Law" and "The Hotelman's Basic Law" are official texts of the College of Casualty and Property Under-writers and the American Hotel and Motel Assn., respectively.

Cortes Raised Sugar Cane

NEW YORK (AP) — Hernando Cortes, conquistador of Mexico, appears to have been a pioneer sugar planter, also. A grant in 1529 gave him "five leagues from the city of Vera Cruz," a little village named La Riconada — the Indians called it "Yzcalpan" — where he built a sugar mill, according to Sugar Assn. historians here.

Cortes built a second mill near Tecatecala in the state of Morelos, using stones from the pyramid at Xochicalco. It's still there on the Rio de Cana and is called El Ingenio. A third factory at Atlacomos was still working in 1891.

The Cortes connection with sugar continued even after his death. In a will dated Aug. 8, 1548, Cortes ordered that inquiry be made about land he had given his steward to enable him to establish sugar works near Cuyocan.

There are 18 calories in a standard teaspoon of sugar.

Agnew-Dilbeck Partnership Split

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (AP) — Real estate developer Walter J. Dilbeck Jr. says former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew made a lot of money and connections during their partnership and left Dilbeck all the problems.

Dilbeck made the comment Friday after Agnew announced he was terminating his one-year, $100,000 contract with Dilbeck because Dilbeck exploited their business relationship and defaulted on a final $25,000 installment.

Dilbeck, whose financial exploits included the ill-fated Global Baseball League which fizzled when all six teams got stuck in Venezuela with unpaid hotel bills, says Agnew is the exploiter.

"I haven't received a dime from him and he's taken $75,000 from me. I gave him a free ride. Everybody knew he was broke when I hired him," Dilbeck said in an interview Friday night. "He got a lot of real connections out of this deal and I got the problems."

Dilbeck said Agnew's final payment wasn't due until June 30, "but if he needs $25,000, I'd be glad to send it to him. That's what he's done before." Dilbeck, 56, said he made advances on several occasions when Agnew asked him for money.

In a letter to Dilbeck which was released to news media, Agnew said Dilbeck's "desire for publicity has violated the confidentiality of many negotiations in progress and shocked our clients.

"In the beginning, I thought the problem was your inexperience with the news media. But now I must conclude that your exaggerations and outright misstatements of fact were a calculated scheme to promote your image at the expense of my integrity," Dilbeck laughed off Agnew's charge that the former vice president's integrity had been jeopardized by their partnership.

"His image wasn't too good when I hired him," Dilbeck said. "In fact, a lot of companies prefer dealing directly with me.

"All I did was what he told me. But I had a feeling this was coming. I've felt he's been making other deals in the East and I don't think he's been representing me."

Dilbeck also accused Agnew of working on an autobiography instead of tending to business.

Dilbeck has said publicly that he and Agnew had nearly completed a pair of multimillion-dollar deals in Kentucky — one for homes and apartments purchased with Mideast oil money, and the other for sale of a coal mine to Japanese interests. But Dilbeck said the only deal Agnew concluded was the $2-million sale of an Oklahoma coal mine. And Dilbeck said he never received any money from that transaction.

Senior Citizens Can Swap Homes In Vacation Program

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Senior citizens living on fixed incomes in low-income public housing can't afford to travel, see new sights and have fun, right?

Not necessarily. Senior citizens now can swap homes and cities in an federal experiment called the "Vacation Residential Exchange" program.

Portland is one of six cities involved in the program, sponsored by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

"I can't think of a more fantastic idea than this one," said Fred Rosenbaum, chairman of the Housing Authority of Portland. "Darn it, why shouldn't elderly people in public housing have a vacation just like anyone else?"

"These are people who've worked all their lives, paid their bills, paid their taxes, maybe put their kids through college," he said. "Now, at age 65, why shouldn't they be able to kick up their heels a little?"

Beginning April 21, twenty senior citizens living in two housing authority high-rise structures will swap places with 20 others from Sacramento, Calif., for 10 days.

Travel will be by plane and train. The project includes an exchange of apartments, beds and bedding, and friends in what HEW officials hope will be burgeon into a nationwide program.

"This is going to give 20 people a new outlook, maybe a new life," said Ruth Drurey, director of resident security and services for the housing agency. She is coordinating the Portland-Sacramento exchange.

A government grant will pay for travel and incidentals. Other activities are being arranged by housing authorities in both cities.

Housing officials here are calling on Portland businesses, churches and service clubs that might offer the Sacramento group a tour, a lunch, sightseeing excursions or other activities.

A panel of public housing tenants and laymen will choose the 20 Portland residents for the experimental excursion by mid-March. Applicants already are being distributed to interested tenants.

Congressman Can't Return Part Of Pay To Government

WASHINGTON (AP) — A South Dakota congressman says he wants to return part of his salary to the taxpayers, but the federal government won't take the money back.

Rep. Larry Pressler instead offered the $4,250 — 10 per cent of his year's salary — to the State of South Dakota, which did accept it.

Pressler returned to South Dakota on Friday and wrote a check for $354, the second of 12 monthly installments. Earlier, he had mailed the first in-

PUCO Probe Promised

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Democratic leaders in the House and Senate pledged today to support a move to thoroughly examine the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio and its rate-making process.

House Speaker Vernal G. Riffe Jr., 89 New Boston, and Senate President Pro Tem Oliver Ocasek, D-Akron, said they will urge the General Assembly to adopt a joint resolution establishing a SenateHouse Legislative committee to study the problems.

"More specifically, we are proposing that the committee examine the operations of the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio to determine what, if any, statutory and administrative changes are necessary to assure that energy supplies are available to Ohio's industries and homes, and to assure that the charges for those supplies are fair and equitable..."

The two leaders said they want the committee, yet to be selected, to move immediately with its inquiries and report its finding and recommendations before next winter.

"We want immediate action during this General Assembly," they said. They suggested that a resolution now in the House Insurance, Utilities and Financial Institutions Committee be used as the legislative vehicle to create the SenateHouse committee. That resolution would have required a study of the PUCO.

The Democratic leaders said it was conceivable, "in the not too distant future, homeowners' utility bills may equal homeowners' mortgage payments."

Arrest Man In Theft Of Mailbox

Pickaway County Sheriff Dwight Radcliff arrested Charles Ray Johnson in the Feb. 2 theft of a mailbox at the Jeffrey Eitel residence, Route 1, Orient.

According to the initial report Eitel reported that someone took his mailbox and post from his residence located on the Circleville-London-Northern Road, during the evening of Feb. 2.

Johnson has been charged with petit theft.

Joseph Rush reported to Sheriff's Authorities that thieves took a tape player, tapes and savings book from his abandoned vehicle parked along the road.

According to the report taken by Deputy F. Randall McCoy, the thieves used a screwdriver to remove the player from the unlocked vehicle.

Value was set at $75.

Tools and gasoline, valued at $73.50, were taken from the Asa Chester residence, between 10 a.m. Thursday and 10 a.m. Friday.

The thieves entered the unlocked barn to get to the items.

A 16-inch bicycle was taken sometime between Thursday and Friday from the Clyde White residence, Derby.

According to the report taken by Deputy John Bost, the thieves removed the bike from the yard of the residence.

The bike was valued at $75.

Tim McCoy, Route 1, Orient, reported to Sheriff's Authorities that thieves took his 1973 cycle from his home, located on the Harrisburg-Darbyville Road.

The cycle was sitting in the yard when McCoy left at 8:45 p.m. Friday and was gone when he returned 12:08 a.m. today.

The tags were laying in the yard near the barn.

Deputy John Bost investigated the theft.

UNESCO May Help Israelis

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Top officials of the U.N. Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization are trying to soften an action against Israel that caused Congress to hold up $19 million in United States dues.

Under Arab pressure, the conference of UNESCO in Paris decided last fall to bar Israel from certain intergovernmental activities in Europe and stopped $24,000 in cultural aid to Israel as a penalty for forbidden archeological excavations in occupied Arab Jerusalem.

This brought a sharp response from Western parliaments and celebrities. The U.S. Congress is holding up the $19 million for 1975, and leading Western artists and scientists are denying UNESCO expert advice and help until the action is reversed.

A senior UNESCO official said Friday that William B. Buffum, U.S. assistant secretary of state for international organization affairs, urged the organization show some activity toward such a reversal when he met Monday with its new Senegalese director-general, Amadou Mahtar M'Bow, in Paris, the seat of UNESCO.

The official said only the next 135-nation general conference in 1976 had authority to reverse the decisions, but UNESCO's 40-member executive board, meeting next May, could delay implementing the $24,000 penalty if there were new evidence to warrant it.

Vandals Waste Farm Fertilizer

Vandals wasted 2,200 gallons of liquid nitrogen Friday night or Saturday morning, opening a shut-off valve in a storage tank and allowing the fertilizer to run to the ground.

Tom Lamb, an employee of Swift Farm Center, 585 Clinton St., called police when he noticed the nitrogen on the ground in the rear of the property.

Police Ptl. Joe Stevenson said the tank was one of three in the area, but it was the only one that did not have a padlock to secure the shut-off valve.

The fertilizer is valued at $2,040.
